"IMPLANT DENTISTRY"

JUSTIN K. LIDDLE, DMD

Implant dentistry has become very much a part of our daily routine in our practices. At the same time, there has been significant growth in the industry with new implant companies, implant specific dental materials, and new technologies. All these changes and growth in implant dentistry have the same promise to make implant dentistry in our offices to be easier, faster, more cost effective, and better for our patients. In this presentation, I would like to have the open discussion of what is working and what is not and the challenges with determining what is needed to insure we can confidently restore the implant cases in our practices. As I primarily work as a private practice prosthodontist, I will provide my clinical point of view of what things have worked for me and what things have not worked out so well over the years. We will begin with the single unit restoration and expand to full mouth implant restorations all with the goal of providing some confidence in the treatment of the implant cases that are routinely seen in your practice.

Dr. Liddle Bio-

Dr. Liddle received his doctorate at Case Western Reserve University School of Dental Medicine in 2007, followed by a three year Prosthodontic Residency at the Louisiana State University Health Science Center. He has trained with international authorities on dental esthetics and implant dentistry, and received numerous commendations, including a tie for 1st Place in the world for the Nobel Biocare Student Case Presentation Award.

Dr. Liddle purchased his first practice from Dr. Scott Perkins, DDS, in 2010, becoming one of the only prosthodontists in Northern Colorado, Wyoming, and Nebraska. He is also a certified dental technician. When he is not serving his patients, Dr. Liddle leads instruction courses on prosthodontic procedures and is highly sought after educator on implant dentistry techniques in Colorado.

Dr. Liddle is married with four daughters and is fluent in Spanish.
